Seek Revenge
On Viet Cong

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

BINH GIA, South Viet Nam (AP)—More than 800 South Vietnamese troops moved out of embattled Binh Gia today into a new operation zone nearby, seeking revenge for the Viet Cong success of the past week.

For the second day no important contact developed. An enemy sniper with a shotgun wounded one paratrooper. The sniper was captured immediately.

Eighty helicopters transferred the troops under the watchful eye of Lt. Gen. John L. Throckmorton, deputy U.S. commander in Viet Nam. No enemy fire met the helicopters as they landed the troops.

Fifteen armored personnel carriers were moving toward the new helicopter landing zone, but it did not seem that the Viet Cong intended to fight during the day.

The Roman Catholic peasants in Binh Gia, 40 miles east of Saigon, were getting jittery about the exodus of government forces from the area immediately around the town. Only about 400 Vietnamese troops with 12 U.S. advisers remained in the town. Rumors circulated that the Viet Cong had up to 2,000 troops in the vicinity.

Government forces suffered their worst defeat of the war in nine days of fighting around Binh Gia, a Catholic refugee settlement. Six Americans were killed and two others are missing and believed captured. Government casualties are estimated at around 500, including 121 killed.

A battalion was airlifted Tuesday to look for two missing U.S. soldiers. Villagers at Xa Long Tan told intelligence officers the Communists took the two Americans to caves in the area.

"Finding the right caves is like finding a needle in a haystack," said Lt. Gerald L. Sewell of Houston, Tex.

The paratroopers moved through almost perfect ambush country, but the Viet Cong did not show. Villagers said the Communists had been around earlier; they left behind signs on trees saying "Down with the U.S.-Khanh lackeys" and "Get the American invaders' weapons and kill them with them."

In Saigon, the government issued a communique denying rumors of impending negotiations with the Communists to end the war.

PLAINFIELD FIRE
DESTROYS CHICKS
IN $100,000 BLAZE

PLAINFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A fire of undetermined origin Tuesday night caused $100,000 damage to the Munroe Hatchery. Firemen from five communities battled the blaze for more than two hours.

No one was injured in the fire, which destroyed 32,000 chicks valued at $50,000. Damage to the building and equipment amounted to $50,000, officials said.

Firemen from Plainfield, Troy, East Joliet, Lockport and Homer fought the fire.

A Plainfield fireman, Bob Knowles, sustained minor injuries when two Plainfield fire trucks collided as they rushed to the scene.

'Tuesday-To-Thursday'
Club Sparks Grumbles

By GEOFFREY GOULD
WASHINGTON (AP) — One of Congress' most hallowed unofficial institutions, the "Tuesday-to-Thursday Club," is coming in for some Republican grumbling again.

The name refers to the common habit of some congressmen of leaving for home Thursday night and coming back to work in Washington Tuesday morning.

An obliging Democratic leadership has in the past scheduled most major and controversial bills for the midweek days of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts made clear Tuesday that he has no intention of changing the system in this session of Congress.

McCormack defended the system by saying that if a full week of important legislation is scheduled and the House completes it by Thursday, there is no reason for it to stay around Friday.

Percy Calls For Resignation Of GOP Chief Burch

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican Charles Percy, defeated candidate for governor of Illinois, Tuesday night called for the resignation of Dean Burch as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Percy was a guest on ABC television's Les Crane Show.

He said he wasn't dissatisfied with Burch as a person but that the party should have as its chairman someone with a "broader base of appeal." As a possible successor to Burch, Percy named Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio, who, Percy said, could create party unity.

Percy maintained that Burch is in an "untenable position" as committee chairman. Percy said replacing Burch "would not be a purge, it would just be a change in leadership."

Percy, who has been mentioned as a possible successor to Burch, said the GOP needs leadership with broad appeal and positive ideas if it is to rebuild.

He declined to name a possible Republican presidential candidate for the 1968 election, saying the party must be rebuilt and a strong showing made in 1966 elections before such consideration can be made.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma chimed in to say that members would not be likely to stay around for a Friday devoted to minor speechmaking in the House chamber, so there is no particular reason for scheduling a session on that day.

"That isn't the point," protested a longtime Republican critic of the Tuesday-to-Thursday Club, Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa. "They can schedule business on Friday. They are the leaders and they can and should schedule business."

He said the system is an accommodation, largely for members from the Eastern seaboard, "who want to go home weekends to practice law or spend their time golfing or on the beaches."

Republicans, realizing that most of the weekending congressmen of the Eastern seaboard are big city liberal Democrats, have always hoped to reap an advantage by forcing late-week sessions.

Illinois Solons
Last Hope To Up
University Funds

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois General Assembly appears to be the last hope for six state universities seeking budget increases totaling $127 million.

In a meeting Tuesday, the Illinois Board of Higher Education approved increases of about $100 million after hearing arguments from presidents and other spokesmen for the schools.

The board's recommendation will be made to the General Assembly, which makes the final decision on budget allocations. The funds are for the two-year period starting July 1.

The General Assembly has historically appropriated less than is asked for, the board noted.

Rising prices and expanding services were cited as reasons for budget increase requests.

Budget increases sought by each institution and those approved by the board were:

Southern Illinois University, $39,151,194; $23,676,899.

Eastern Illinois University, $6,405,179; $5,502,296.

Illinois State at Normal, $9,588,330; $6,934,312.

Northern Illinois University, $16,693,942; $12,882,583.

Western Illinois University, $6,837,129; $5,244,972.

University of Illinois, $49,079,919; $45,349,259.

Deferred by the board until its meeting Feb. 2 in Chicago was consideration of a request for capital and operating funds to activate a new program at the University of Illinois branch at Chicago's Navy Pier.

The board's action Tuesday included making public a priority list for federal grants under the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963.

The priority ranking of the schools and the federal money involved are Loyola University $1,504,326; Mount Vernon Commercial College, no amount given; Lewis College $200,527; Wabash Valley College, no amount given; North Park College $512,903; SIU (Edwardsville) $202,465; U of I (Chicago) $1 million; SIU (Carbondale) $1 million; Springfield Jr. College $133,005; DePaul $775,833; Olivet Nazarene College $499,371; National College of Education $337,984; Augustana College $130,004; McKendree College (Science) $210,822; Mundelein College $1 million; Illinois Tech $460,517; Illinois Wesleyan $442,702; McKendree College (Library) $5,573; Eureka College $235,093; U of I (Urbana) $1 million.

Book By Valachi
Reads Just Like
Crime Fiction

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has in its hands what might be considered a rare manuscript—but it can't figure out what to do with it.

The title is "The Real Thing" and the author of the 1,200-page book is Joseph Valachi, 60, new to the writing game.

While its contents are allegedly solid fact, it reads like crime fiction.

The convicted murderer and narcotics pusher wrote his memoirs during long months in the District of Columbia Jail. He has resided there since September 1963, when he spilled to federal authorities and a Senate committee the secrets of the underworld syndicate he called the Cosa Nostra.

A Justice Department spokesman said department lawyers are scrutinizing the book to determine whether its contents may be made public and, if so, how.

William G. Hundley, who heads the department's organized crime section and who shepherded Valachi during his revelations, said the Valachi book generally tends to confirm and amplify what he told the department and the Senate committee.

Army helicopters Tuesday evacuated nearly 200 persons living in two areas near the swollen Eel and Mad rivers as flood stages approached. Air Force helicopters dropped feed to thousands of starving sheep on barren floodlands south of Eureka, Calif., center for flood relief operations.

A howling rainstorm, driven in some places by a whole gale of more than 60 miles an hour, battered the northern half of the state Tuesday. Eureka and Red Bluff recorded more than an inch of precipitation in a few hours.

Both areas immediately menaced are on the coast 250 miles north of San Francisco. The warning to evacuate was sounded by Norman Robertson, Humboldt County Civil Defense director.

New flooding finds California still reeling from the devastation wrought by the floods that started Dec. 20, which spread a billion dollars in property damage and caused more than 40 deaths in five Western states.

Hit besides California were Oregon, Nevada, Washington and Idaho.

This time, California alone is taking the brunt of a low-pressure area anchored off Washington. Rains, in decreasing amounts, are expected to continue through Thursday.

None of the other Western states report any flood danger, although two inches of rain fell Tuesday on the Oregon coast.

Disaster authorities warned more than 1,000 residents of the Eel delta and the nearby town of Blue Lake to prepare to flee their homes.

The Red Cross reopened its evacuation centers at Hydesville, south of Eureka, and volunteers were alerted for the reopening of centers at Arcata and Blue Lake.

Inland, more than 200 families in the Richfield and Henley were ordered evacuated by Civil Defense officials after dikes and levees broke along Toms Creek, about 13 miles south of Red Bluff.

USSR-China Disagree
On Indonesia Action

By ANTOINE YARED

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The Soviet Union and Communist China were locked in a diplomatic tug-of-war today over Indonesia's decision to withdraw from the United Nations.

Peking approved, Moscow didn't.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai A. Mikhailevich met Tuesday night with Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio. Reliable diplomatic sources said the Russian told Subandrio the Kremlin believes Indonesian withdrawal from the United Nations will aggravate the tense situation in eastern Asia.

Red Chinese Ambassador Yao Chung-ming called on Subandrio twice today to communicate Peking's solid backing for President Sukarno's decision. Peking radio earlier today expressed "firm support" of the Indonesian action, and the official Peking People's Daily called the United Nations "a vile place for a few powers to share the spoils."

It was the first expression of support from a foreign government for Sukarno's decision.

U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones and the envoys of Pakistan, Czechoslovakia, and Poland also called on Subandrio. Their meetings all were reported related to Indonesia's withdrawal from the world organization.

Subandrio is scheduled to meet Thursday with the ambassadors from the United Arab Republic, Algeria and the Philippines.

The Soviets also are known to fear the threat of Communist Chinese domination over this part of the world and have repeatedly sought to discourage Asian Communist parties from associating closely with Peking.

Political observers in Jakarta have expressed concern that withdrawal from the United Nations would force Indonesia closer to Communist China.

The Soviet Union has supplied Indonesia with most of its military hardware since 1960 but is reported to have slowed down deliveries in the past year, since Indonesia showed increasing sympathy with Peking's policies.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, there was speculation that Sukarno would reconsider his decision to pull out. One well-informed source there said Sukarno acted on his own and that his top ministers were dismayed.

Seek Firmer
Brakes On Filibusters

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The Senate heads today into another scrap over moves to strengthen its antifilibuster rule.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen is aligned with the Southerners in opposition to any rules changes.

The issue was to be joined with introduction of a resolution by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., to permit filibusters to be halted by three-fifths of the senators voting—but otherwise to retain present Senate rules.

Present regulations require a two-thirds majority of senators voting to clamp a time limit on debate.

The issue has been battled over at the start of each new Congress in recent years.

A big difference this time is that a Southern filibuster last year against the most comprehensive civil rights bill in history was cut off under the present rule requiring a two-thirds majority of senators voting to clamp a time limit on debate.

As a result, some of the emotional fervor has been drained off. It long had been argued that the rule barred the passage of meaningful civil rights legislation.

"This fallacy has been completely destroyed," Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said after Southern senators met in his office Tuesday and vowed an all-out fight against any change in rules to make it easier to limit debate.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The State Electoral Board certified today the at-large election vote for state representatives.

The canvass had been held up by a delay in receiving the Du Page County returns because of a court suit.

Simplifying Knowledge

We hear a lot about the "information explosion" — how knowledge is piling on top of knowledge at such a rate that we are in danger of being buried under mountains of information.

It's enough to make a kindergarten want to turn in his scissors and craft paper right now.

It's refreshing then to hear an optimistic view, especially from someone who has done his own share of adding to mankind's store of knowledge.

Biochemist Albert Szent-Gyorgyi, winner of the 1937 Nobel Prize for medicine, is optimistic because "science tends to generalize, and generalization means simplification."

He points to his own field, biology, which is very much richer than in his student days. "But it is simpler, too. Then it was horribly complex, being fragmented into a great number of isolated principles. Today these are all fused into one single complex with the atomic model in its center."

Fun At Fort Gordon

The federal government's General Accounting Office periodically jolts the public with disclosures about misuse of the taxpayers' money. Each time it does this, the GAO further justifies its function as the congressional watchdog over spending.

The latest such disclosure involves a comparatively small sum. But it is a good example of what happens when public servants develop a thick skin regarding the use of public services for private enjoyment.

In this instance, the GAO reports to Congress that both civilians and military brass have been provided with VIP treatment at Fort Gordon during the annual Masters Golf Tournament at nearby Augusta, Ga. It seems that at this year's shindig 32 generals and admirals and

According to Szent-Gyorgyi, we have the wrong idea about the function of books. We think of them as something whose contents have to be crammed into our heads — or our children's.

Just the opposite, he says. "Books are there to keep the knowledge in while we use our heads for something better."

Another widely held opinion is that memorizing of facts is good mental training and that knowledge does no harm. But, he says, the mind is not a bottomless pit, "and if we put in one thing we might have to leave out another."

So what the schools have to do, he says, "is to make us learn how to learn, to whet our appetites for knowledge, to teach us the delight of doing a job well and the excitement of creativity, to teach us to love what we do, and to help us to find what we love to do."

A tall order, but one well worth attempting to fill.

Washington Soviet Spy Case Reveals Flaws in U.S. Security

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There has now been time for experts to make a thorough study of the operations of Swedish Soviet agent Col. Stig Wennerstrom. These studies are alarming. They reveal an unexpectedly high degree of Soviet "professionalism" (competence) in sophisticated agent operations. They also disclose weaknesses in American military-industrial security.

It was made abundantly clear from the Wennerstrom operations that the Soviets have come a long way from the spying techniques of the Whittaker Chambers and Alger Hiss days. These common American security weaknesses were disclosed by the Wennerstrom testimony.

First — Wennerstrom and his Soviet chiefs noted a tendency by Americans to highly classify many items of little or no use to the Russians and to underclassify or leave in the clear many items the Reds considered of prime intelligence interest.

This less-than-perfect system of classification, of course, makes life easier for Soviet agents. Wennerstrom took full advantage of it.

Second — Wennerstrom noted that in many places men handling secret information tended to take his word that he was entitled to have access to secret material. Apparently he was not asked for documentary proof. Seemingly, some of these men gave him information without checking with Pentagon or State Department security men.

Third — There seems to be a tendency among higher government and company officials to be more lax in security than lower officials. If a top man met Wennerstrom under the right circumstances socially, he frequently was automatically considered OK.

Fourth — Among the men and women Wennerstrom met, there seemed to be a tendency to believe that if a man wasn't a Communist, then he couldn't be a spy.

There apparently have been so many stories about the kind of people who supposedly spy for the Russians that it is difficult for some Americans to conceive of a socially acceptable, conservative — appearing colonel from a fine country like Sweden actually being a spy.

Wennerstrom apparently was spying for excitement, for money or in revenge for having been passed over for promotion — or for a combination of all three of these reasons.

Fifth — There seems to be a weakness in the way that U.S. and Allied officers transport classified material in foreign countries. It seems from the Wennerstrom testimony that if the Russians know a particular man is carrying a document they want, they have good techniques for securing that document, copying and returning it without the officer-courier knowing about it.

The Reds seemed in cases cited by Wennerstrom to be able to accomplish this theft whether the officer was carrying the document on his person or in a diplomatic pouch. How they did this is not disclosed in the Wennerstrom unclassified testimony.

Some experts in the security field now favor classifying less material, then making certain that security precautions are tightened on what's left.

WASHINGTON (AP) — You might think that when 435 members of Congress get together in the House to do business they could, after all these years, do it in a tidy, easy, amicable way.

But they've had trouble since they started in 1789, and still have, on the simple question of how to get things done. They've made rules and then shuffled, sweated, protested, revolted, and changed the rules.

They did it again this week, and it was a very important change, by undercutting the almost unbelievable authority of their powerful, conservative Rules Committee.

And, in the process, they gave back to the House speaker a handful of power they stripped him of 55 years ago, which is pretty good evidence the House members even yet aren't sure of the best way to get things done.

To get them done at all — with all the bills, resolutions, proposals, speeches, motions, interruptions, points of order and hearings — they need rules or a kind of legislative traffic cop.

They have a bunch of rules. The Rules Committee is the traffic cop. Most of the important legislation approved by other committees is sent to the Rules Committee to decide when it should get up to the floor for a vote by the full House.

But — this committee has had such authority, really life-and-death authority over the bills sent to it, that it can decide the full House should not even have a chance to vote. In effect, it could stifle any program.

But first a little history before looking at how this Rules Committee lost this vast power this week.

Within a month after the first Congress opened in 1789 it had adopted about 10 rules. By the time of the Civil War it had 150, and it added more later. There were some changes. Some rules were abolished. In time, more were added.

By 1910 the real czar of the House — actually, about the most powerful man in government, next to the president — was the speaker. That year it was Joseph G. Cannon, Illinois Republican, known in history as "Uncle Joe."

Through the years, with all its stumbling around, the House had let the speaker accumulate this kind of power: he could appoint committees and name chairmen, which meant he could shape or block a House member's career.

And — he was chairman of the Rules Committee, which meant he decided what bill the House would be permitted to vote on and what it couldn't. In 1910 Democrats and Republicans teamed up to cut the speaker down to size.

Cannon was stripped of the various powers just mentioned and was no longer permitted to be Rules Committee chairman. All this did was let the Rules Committee set its own rules and in time it was doing its own bottling up of legislation. This power lasted until 1949.

That year there was another revolt, and a change in rules that let any other committee chairman call up for a full (Continued On Market Page)

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Brain's Adaptability Is Used

As Tool to Treat Retarded

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
When, through a disease or an injury, a child who has been born with a normal brain suffers brain damage, parents and doctors in the past gave up hope and resigned themselves to caring for a subnormal child.

The fact is, however, that no injury short of death will destroy all of the billions of normal cells in the brain.

Through patient retraining, the cells that remain intact can be made to take over much of the function of the damaged cells. Results in some cases have surprised even the most optimistic.

A group of doctors in Philadelphia worked with children who had brain injuries. By a process they called patterned movements they worked with parents to teach these children to crawl and creep. A child was gently put through the patterned exercises in four practice sessions a day, seven days a week.

These children not only learned to creep, but began to show more interest in their surroundings and to use their hands more purposefully. Without any effort to teach them to talk except for talking to them as you would to any child, a large percentage of them began to talk.

This method of treatment, experimental at first, gave results supporting the theory that physical and mental development are interdependent and that, where there is brain damage, instead of giving the child less stimulation he must be given more than he would receive if he were normal.

By spending countless hours with these children and giving them every opportunity to learn, it was found that they could easily be taught to read at the age of 3 or 4.

Thus they often surpassed in mental development children who were perfectly normal.

This observation has led to a renewed interest in teaching normal children to learn the letters of the alphabet as early as their second birthday.

The researchers have also concluded that, if their program of patterned movement is conscientiously carried out and the child does not show marked progress after two years, he is congenitally brain-deficient rather than brain-damaged, or he has a progressive brain disease such as a tumor.

Another important conclusion: Helpful as intelligence tests may be as a guide to past mental development, they are of no help in determining a child's potential future development.

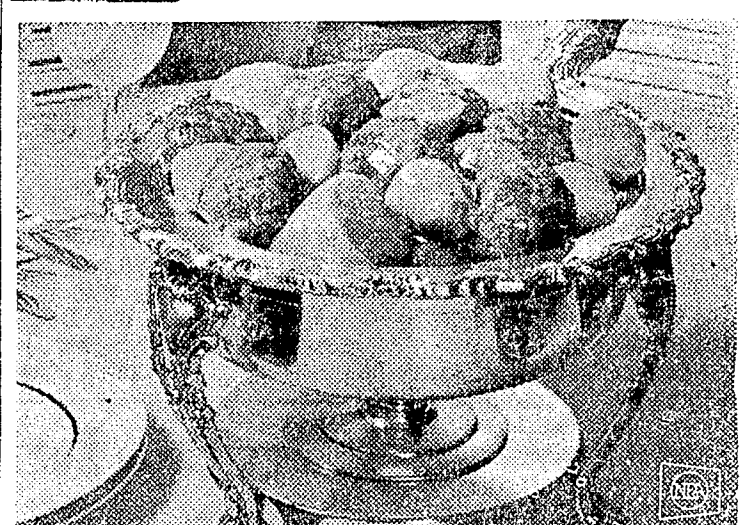

On the other hand, mental development of even a normal child can be held back by limiting the experiences to which he is exposed.

Yam and Ham

Balls Queen's Fare

YAM AND HAM BALLS are Yam Queen's favorite.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Ever meet a Yam Queen? Every year in Opelousas, La., during the annual October Yambilee, a charming young lady is selected to travel nationwide extolling Louisiana's rich golden yams.

Last year's queen told us about her favorite ways to cook yams. Here is one of them.

LOUISIANA YAM AND HAM BALLS

(makes 6 servings)
1½ pounds ground ham
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 medium onion, finely chopped
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar

½ cup vinegar
1 cup water
6 medium yams, cooked, peeled and halved, or 2 cans (1 pound each) Louisiana yams, drained
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Combine ham, crumbs, egg, onion and pepper; mix well. Shape into 18 balls. In large skillet melt butter; add ham balls and cook over low heat until browned on all sides. Set aside ham balls; discard drippings. Combine mustard, sugar, vinegar and ¾ cup water in skillet. Add yams and meat and cook, covered, over low heat 15 minutes. Remove yams and meat to serving dish. Blend cornstarch with remaining water; add to sauce. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Pour over yams and meat.

Inquiry

A farmer took out a fire insurance policy, and the same day his barn burned to the ground. The company suspected fraud but couldn't prove anything. It had to be content with writing the following letter:

"Dear Sir: You took out an insurance policy at 10 a.m. and your fire did not break out until 3:30 p.m. Will you kindly explain the delay?"

(Grit)

Appropriate Retort

A clever young woman was asked to attend a public function. She was assigned a place between a noted bishop and an equally famous rabbi. It was her chance to break into high company, and she meant to use it.

"I feel as if I were a leaf between the Old and New Testaments," she said during a lull in the conversation.

"That page, madam," replied the rabbi, "is usually a blank."

Take It From Ann

LANDERS

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Husbands being what they are, you'll probably tell me I'd better keep mine. The trouble is he is a canner.

The first year we were married he planted too much Swiss chard. We ate Swiss chard until I yodeled — and then he said, "Let's put some up," so we canned.

His next big deal was carrots. It took us four years to use what we canned in one season.

Last year was his big year for tomatoes. He kept bringing in tomatoes — a few bushels at a time until we had over 300 quarts. We had to put concrete shelves in the basement to hold the tomatoes. Right now it looks like an A & P store down there.

I think my husband is nuts like this because he used to live on a farm. I'm a city girl myself and when we wanted a few cans of something we went to the store and bought it.

My husband told me tonight that when he retires he wants to have a big garden and THEN we'll REALLY can. I want to put a stop to this monkey business now. What do you think?

—LOADED
Dear Loaded: Don't complain, Dearie. Your husband can. Some husbands can't.

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for the young man whose ancestors came over on the Mayflower. He suggested that his fiancée (whose ancestors came from Newark and Butte) rise above her "inferior" background.

History tells us that the first colonists consisted largely of ne'er-do-wells, misfits and other assorted characters who found it expedient to leave their homeland — in some instances as quickly as possible.

Some early settlers came to this country to escape religious persecution, and many who did turned around and persecuted those who didn't believe as they did.

Ancestor-hunting can be fun, if done in the proper spirit, but ancestor worship is absurd and has no place in our society — DESCENDANT OF A SALEM WITCH HUNTER

Dear Descendant: Ancestor-hunting CAN be fun and ancestor worship IS absurd but your broad volley aimed at the first settlers is unjustified.

Some ne'er-do-wells and assorted nuts did come over on the first boat but the vast majority of the early settlers were dedicated and courageous men — not a collection of stumble bums.

I live in a beautiful home and my father is a respected professional man. All this sounds as if I should be on top of the world, but I am miserable. The problem is I have no friends.

I have been getting dizzy spells and a ringing in my ears makes me upset and irritable with people. I went to a specialist last week and he couldn't find anything wrong with my ears.

I know this letter is jumbled up but I can't do any better right now because my ears are ringing again. Can you help? —MISS MISERABLE

Dear Miss: You don't have ear trouble. You have "I" trouble. The personal pronoun "I" appears in your letter 13 times.

You've worked so hard to impress people with YOUR looks, YOUR clothes, YOUR voice and YOUR home that you haven't bothered to learn what THEY are like.

The way to get people interested in you is to show interest in them.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Boards To Seek Bids On Bond Money

Members of the Board of Education, District 117, Tuesday evening voted to invest $425,000 in one or more of Jacksonville's five financial institutions until needed to pay for construction of a new vocational education building.
After considerable discussion on the merits of investing the funds from the sale of a bond issue in several California savings and loan associations or leave the funds in Jacksonville to help boost the economy, members of the board voted to leave the funds at home.

No agreement on how the funds should be distributed locally was reached. The city's three banks and two savings and loan associations earlier quoted varying rates of interest from 3½ per cent to 4½ per cent. Several members felt the money should be divided equally and withdrawn from the institution paying the least interest first. Others felt the funds should be invested with the two institutions quoting the highest rate of interest.

Six board members finally voted to authorize the finance committee to seek bids from the five institutions involved and invest the funds at the highest rate. President William Chipman cast the lone "no" vote on the grounds that equal distribution would be the best method of boosting the economy.

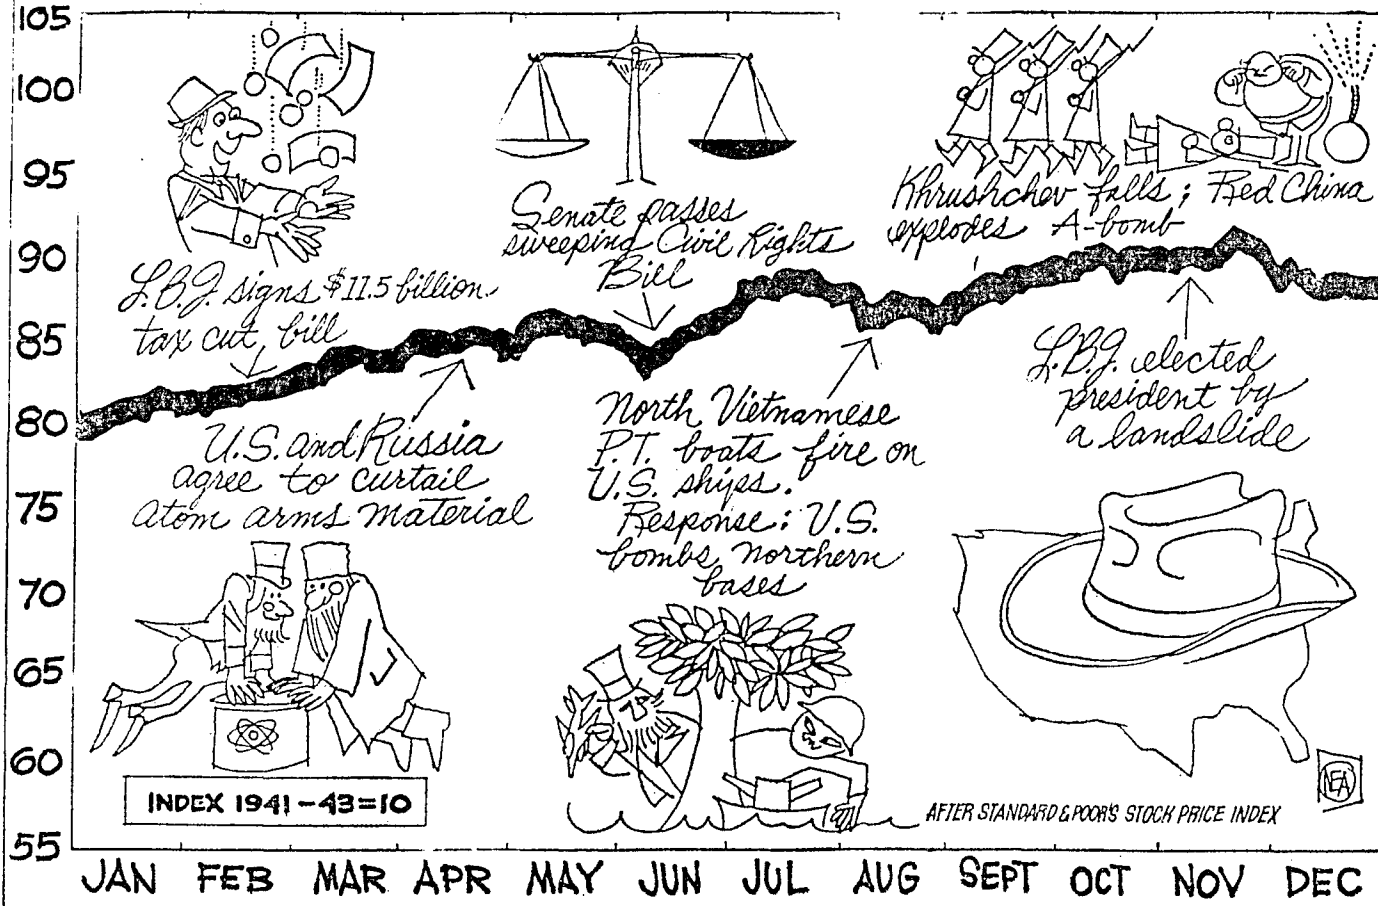

Funds from the sale of bonds will be used to pay for construction of the proposed vocational education building. Payment will be made after various stages of construction. A large part of the funds will remain on deposit about one year, depending upon speed of construction, and earn about $8,500 in interest each six months.

President Chipman will go to Chicago Friday to receive the $425,000 check. The money will be invested Saturday morning. Bids will be sought no later than Friday at 5 p.m. In the event more than one institution quotes the same rate, the funds will be distributed among the successful bidders equally.

The board accepted the resignation of Ellis Brant, principal of Lincoln Elementary School, effective at the end of the school year. Supt. J. A. Mann said that he would notify several universities of the vacancy and that he expected five or six applications for the position from teachers already in the school system.

Donald Bryan, school psychologist for District 117, met with the board to explain several aspects of the testing program used for selecting students who will enter the EMH classes. He also explained individual testing methods carried out during the year. Members of the board have invited teachers from several departments, during the past two years, to explain the newer aspects of their respective fields and how it affects students in the district. The program is designed as an informative and educational experience for board members.

Burch Talks Of Compromise In GOP Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Dean Burch talked Tuesday of compromise to settle the GOP power struggle — but put a "not negotiable" stamp on his own post.

And Burch, in an interview, said he has decided not to ask for a vote of confidence in his chairmanship when the Republican National Committee meets in Chicago Jan. 22 and 23.

With some moderate and liberal Republicans demanding he be replaced, Burch, chosen by Sen. Barry Goldwater, said he assumes there will be a vote on his leadership anyhow.
Burch said he had changed his mind about seeking the vote because the showdown won't do the party any good.

He said he thinks the Republicans seeking his ouster will offer their own resolution in Chicago, asking the national committee to declare it has no confidence in his leadership.
Burch said he has the votes to withstand any such move.

"I think that we have a majority," he said. "I think that our situation has improved in the last couple of weeks."

The chairman said former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon have argued the chairman needs a mandate, not just a majority, to do his job.
"I reserve to myself the right to interpret any vote of the national committee," Burch said.

Legally, he added, the committee could not force his resignation, but he could not stay as a minority chairman.
As for compromising, Burch said of his own role as chairman: "I don't consider that negotiable." But he said he would be willing to put a man acceptable to his opponents into the $25,000-a-year executive director's office vacated by John Grenier.

A Southern leader of Goldwater's drive for the GOP presidential nomination.
But he said the need for that post has diminished because he is a full-time chairman. And he insisted anyone named to a national committee post must be loyal to the party chairman.

As for the executive committee, which helps the chairman guide the party, Burch said "I'd be willing to consider anything reasonable."

He said that could involve the makeup of powers of the executive committee, which has 15 appointed members.

Fire Destroys Florida Satellite Tracking Station

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Fire destroyed a huge, $30-million, satellite-tracking station Tuesday night at the remote edges of this western Florida base.

Firemen, operating mostly from water trucks, were unable to combat the blaze. The nearest community is eight miles away.

The 300-foot-long building has never been used. It was designed to track simultaneously several satellites ranging in altitude up to several thousands of miles.

The fire broke out in midafternoon, but water hoses didn't have enough pressure to reach the top floors.

LITERBERRY CHURCH CLASS PLANS FRIDAY MEETING

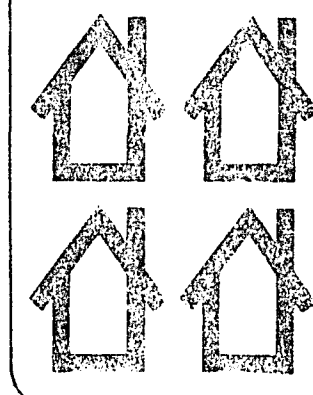

The True Blue class of Literberry Baptist church will meet at 6:30 p.m. Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Charlesworth, Mr. and Mrs. Joe DeGroot and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Standley will host the meeting. Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat will conduct devotions.

Arizona Solon Says He Won't Be Barry Echo

By DON CARSON
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The water, long-time friend, Barry Goldwater, says "I will voice my own philosophy, but I will not be an echo of his." says Republican Paul Fannin.

Fannin, now winding up his third term as governor, will succeed Goldwater, the defeated GOP presidential nominee, as Arizona's junior senator next month.

"I'm not going to represent any one person," Fannin said in an interview. He says he and Goldwater "are in agreement on most issues, but we don't agree on everything. Some of the issues on which we disagree probably will be coming up next year."

The political careers of Fannin and Goldwater have been similar. Fannin, however, shuns the label, preferring to be known only as a Republican.

As a senator, Fannin said, "I will try to be studious and reserve my comments until I am well versed."

To specific questions, however, he made these responses:

Foreign Aid — "We should help people to help themselves.

As a friend of Goldwater's, he was considered a conservative. Fannin, however, shuns the label, preferring to be known only as a Republican.

As a senator, Fannin said, "I will try to be studious and reserve my comments until I am well versed."

To specific questions, however, he made these responses:

Foreign Aid — "We should help people to help themselves.

Foreign assistance to Communist countries should be used almost as a reward. There is an area here of encouragement and reward. I am against any program to a Communist country which doesn't want to pull away."

Civil Rights — "I certainly am not going to make an issue of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 until I see how it works out."

Labor — "I am very much in favor of state right-to-work laws, but I am against a national right-to-work law."

Jobs Corps Camps — "These camps can be beneficial, but I am very concerned about their administration." As governor, Fannin already has approved camps for several Arizona communities.

Federal Aid to Education — This is proper where there is a dual responsibility such as large federal land ownership or the existence of defense industries.

or service installations.

Reapportionment of Legislatures — The Congress should pass legislation restoring to the states the authority to apportion their legislatures on plans approved by the voters at special elections.

Always use cold water to wash pans used for milk, eggs, cheese mixtures or flour batters.

A Youngster's Ingenuity

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR POLLY—I am only 12 years old and have always wanted a canopy bed for my room. I dreamed up one that works just fine. I took four poles, the same size, and that were really mop and broom handles and had my father fasten them to the four corners of my bed to make tall posts. They were painted just like the bed. Then he stretched wire from the top of one post to another. I then laid a dust ruffle I had over the top so the ruffles hang down on the sides over the wire. —DEBORAH GIRLS — Just imagine a 12-year-old with such ingenuity. I am sure our young reader would be a likely prospect for a future interior decorator. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have just discovered a use for old crew socks. Cut the long tops off the feet, cut these tops open lengthwise and sew a pair together, also lengthwise, and have good absorbent dish cloths. They bleach beautifully and do not ravel. I find them useful for many cleaning purposes. —MRS. A. G.

DEAR POLLY — I usually need salt for the lunch I carry each day. My mother cuts a paper straw into about five pieces and tapes shut one end in each piece. She pours a little salt into each straw, tapes the other end shut and tosses it into my lunch box. Salt never gets spilled this way and she keeps these salt straws made up ahead. —PHILIP

DEAR POLLY — The rubber protectors that we put on the bottoms of chrome chair legs are wonderful to put on broom or mop handles that might hit and mar the walls.

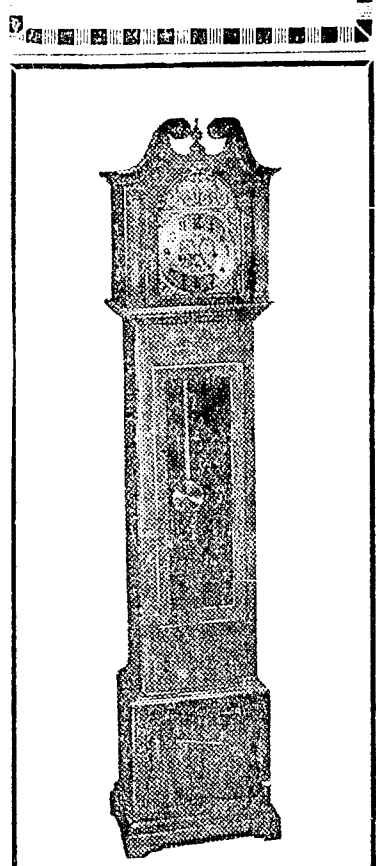

We save nagging at our house by having a "fix it" drawer for the youngsters. If a toy is broken it is put in the box. At his convenience their dad checks over these things, repairs those that can be fixed and discards the others.

"Never go up or down stairs empty-handed" is a family rule in our house. When time and energy are at a premium, one appreciates the courtesy extended by other members of the family. There is a basket at the top of the stairs and one at the bottom to catch the little things to go up or down. Even the clean clothes to go to the upstairs bedrooms are left there so mom does not have to make so many trips. —MRS. W. B.

"LONG ON SERVICE"

Take Steps To Protect Those Using Pesticides

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major steps toward greater protection for persons using pesticides and against animal diseases highlighted regulatory and control programs of the Agriculture Department in 1964.

The agricultural research service, reporting this today, also said their achievements included increased activity in meat inspection and development of a new low-dosage technique for insect control.

Changes in pesticide regulations to increase safety include requirements that key warning and caution statements be displayed on pesticide labels.

Revised regulations also require submission by manufacturers of additional information on toxicity of new pesticides proposed for national marketing.

The department reported that the new low-volume technique for insecticides was developed in use of the nonpersistent insecticide Malathion in three state-federal pest control programs.

The programs showed that the chemical was more effective at lower dosages when applied undiluted by water, oil, or other diluents and could be used with only minor equipment changes.

"The low-volume technique," the department reported, "dramatically cut amounts of material (insecticide plus diluent) needed to control boll weevils, grasshoppers, and cereal leaf beetles. It brought the amount of Malathion needed for cereal leaf beetles down from 16 ounces per acre to 8 ounces — not more insecticide for each acre than the amount of liquid in a half-pint milk carton."

In the animal disease control field, the department said, cooperative state-federal programs continued to show encouraging results.

Vermont became the first state to be declared officially free of hog cholera and outbreaks of the disease nationally fell 29 per cent from the number reported in 1963.

Utah became the first major beef-producing state to achieve eradication of cattle brucellosis. It joined New Hampshire, Maine and Rhode Island in being listed free of that cattle disease that can be transmitted to humans as undulant fever.

In the drive against brucellosis in swine, 63 counties in five states were qualified by the end of 1964 as brucellosis free areas. Herds free of the disease were up to 1,673 in 39 states and Puerto Rico by October, compared with 451 in 23 states in the same month of 1963.

Increasing demands for federal inspection of meat and meat products was shown during the last year with requests for it from 89 meatpacking and processing plants. They joined 1,590 other establishments in 672 cities and towns that have requested inspection which is mandatory for meat shipped across state lines.

Since World War II, 33 countries have won their independence in Africa.

JADE FOR A LADY

BY M. E. CHABER

THE STORY: Milo March is calling on Hsu Chin Kwang, a retired merchant who is an authority on jade. Milo meets Hsu's daughter.

XV

It was a large room, with the furnishings strictly Chinese. I finally spotted Hsu Chin Kwang on the far side of the room. He wore black silk pants and jacket. The only modern thing about him was the cigarette he was smoking. His hair was white, as was his long, sparse beard.

"March hsien," he said, "you have honored my home. It is a double honor, since you not only speak my language but understand the old ways. Too many of my own people no longer care to express themselves properly. Please be seated."

I took a seat near him. "I will have tea with me?" he asked.

I said that I would. He clapped his hands sharply, and another servant appeared through the door with tea. It was served. After I had tasted it, I complimented him on it and finally felt I could broach my reason for being there.

"I am told," I said, "that you are the foremost authority on jade. This is why I have come to see you."

"You pay compliments which I do not deserve," March hsien. I am only a poor student of jade, but I will be happy to share what little knowledge I have with you. It is one of the most beautiful of stones. The old name for it in my country was yu. That which was most ancient, having been passed from generation to generation, was called ke yu. Old jade which had been mined was known as chin yu, while that which had been buried with the dead was han yu. The name jade came from your own country, as you probably know."

"I didn't know it," I said. "Oh yes. When the Spanish explorers first went to America, they found the Indians using jade to ward off sickness. The explorers called the stone piedra de iada. Later the French called it pierre de jade and later shortened it to le jade, and from this came the present name."

"But you had it long before that," I said.

He nodded. "We know of jade which dates back to what you would call 1700 B.C. The Shang dynasty. Jade has long been loved by the Chinese. Confucius compared it to virtue. He said: 'It is warm, liquid, strong and firm like politeness. Like the truth it gives out a bright rainbow.'"

"That's very interesting," I said. "It wasn't really what I wanted to know."

"But I talk too much," he said. "I am an old man and sometimes I forget that water runs faster from a barren hill than from one that is young and vigorous. You came to see me for a purpose and I am not permitting you to state it."

"But I enjoyed what you have said," I protested. "It is also true that I came to seek your help upon a matter involving jade."

"My limited knowledge is at your disposal."

"Do you also know," I asked, "that there have been many valuable pieces of jade disappearing during the past year or so? All from different parts of the world?"

"You mean stolen?"

"Yes."

"I have heard of this," he said, "but I'm afraid that I know very little of the matter. Valuable property is always being stolen, when it is not well guarded."

"But are you also aware that these pieces of jade have not shown up after being stolen? Other things stolen by the same people are eventually sold and can be found. But the jade does not appear again."

"Ah," he said. He stared at me, his eyes dulled with age yet full of wisdom. "It has occurred to you that since the jade does not appear, it is all ending up in the hands of a collector?"

"That is one idea," I said. "I thought you might know other large collectors well enough to tell me if one of them might be that greedy."

"It might even be myself," he suggested.

"True," I admitted. "I have thought of that."

"I am very wealthy and also very old. I cannot take the money with me when I go to join my ancestors, so why should I have things stolen when I can buy them?"

"I was hoping," I said, "that you might be able to tell me which collectors might be willing to go beyond the law to add to their collection."

"I am sorry I cannot," he said. "I do not know any of the collectors. While your theory may be right, perhaps you should also look elsewhere. Perhaps someone new to jade, who has never collected before. Such a person might find it difficult to buy what he wants."

"I had thought of that," I said.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bing Crosby, who seldom gets ruffled at anything, evidenced a brief irritation over a recent magazine story that said he had mellowed after years of being a difficult star.

"Hell, I haven't changed in 40 years," he muttered.

His claim seemed true as he strolled about the set of "The Bing Crosby Show," tossing quips to members of the cast and crew. His face was lean and unlined, his manner remained in the affable Crosby image. At 60 he presents the figure of a man content with his life and work.

Bing now lives and works in different worlds. He and his wife Kathryn and their three young children make their home at Burlingame, on the peninsula south of San Francisco.

"The system has worked out very well," he explained. "I fly down here on a jet Monday morning and I fly back on Friday afternoon. I live near the airport, so that's no problem. The flight takes 45-50 minutes. It's just like commuting from Long Island to Manhattan."

"I do that for a couple of weeks and then I get a week off. So it isn't tough doing the show at all."

Why did he pull up his stakes here to live in the northland?

"Actually I'm here more than I used to be when I had a house in town," he said. "But I moved up north for a little quieter living. The city is getting bigger all the time — a little too big for me."

"I like it up north. I can drive downtown in a few minutes and walk around and get to know the storekeepers — yes, the innkeepers, too. It's nice to feel that you are part of a community."

"We have lots of friends up there, mostly people I had known before we moved up. It's easy to drive up to San Francisco. We go to the opera a couple of times a year, and Kathryn likes the ballet. There are plenty of dinners and parties; in fact, you have to be careful or you could be going out every night."

"Golf? There's a course right near our house. So we really don't lack for anything."

U.S. SAYS NO CHANGE IN W. GERMAN POLICY
WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no change in U.S. policy on German reunification, the State Department declared Tuesday.

But, press officer Robert McCloskey said, the Western allies must give "careful consideration" to all questions which could be linked to the German problem before sitting down to negotiate with the Soviets.

He was asked to comment on Bonn dispatches reporting that the West German press and certain official circles in the German capital suspect a shift in American policy.

The scoring system in the World Bridge Olympiad as in most other team competition is based on International Match Points and does not give credit for honors.

Thus when The Netherlands played Switzerland the Dutch player in the North seat decided to bid seven spades rather than seven diamonds because spades count 10 points more per trick and his side would gain two IMPs if they bid and not get to seven. Instead, they made seven spades while the Swiss North-South pair bid and if Holland had not been quite so eager, its team would have gained 500 points or 11 IMPs instead of losing 1,090 points and 15 IMPs on this hand.

Name Assistant To Postmaster At Beardstown

BEARDSTOWN —Postmaster Virgil F. Reither has announced appointment of J. William Lawler, as assistant postmaster at the Beardstown post office to succeed Virgil M. Dowdall, who retired Dec. 29. Lawler's appointment was effective January 1.

A career employee at the local office, Mr. Lawler has been a city carrier for several years. He was appointed as a Christmas substitute in 1952 and received a temporary appointment January 1, 1953, since which time he has been steadily employed. The new assistant has a background in the business life of the community and had a leading part in the attraction of a number of industries to Beardstown. At the present time he is interested in a news agency operation here. His wife is the former Isabel Evans. He has a son Dick who is employed as an executive with IBM.

Ponder Dilemma Of Viet Nam Conflict

new, pointing toward a neutrality that would be guaranteed by the United Nations or a special international commission.

There were conflicting undercurrents of Senate sentiment for outright U.S. withdrawal or for expansion of the U.S.-backed warfare. But those views came only from a handful of senators.

Most of the legislators who responded to an Associated Press survey shunned the idea of pulling out of, committing U.S. combat troops or of extending the war into Communist North Viet Nam.

One Republican, J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware, came up with a new formula. He suggested a U.S. call for Vietnamese elections within three or four months to choose a government supported by the people.

"Our future conduct in South Viet Nam would depend on whether or not the new government wanted us to keep up our assistance or to get out," he said.

Pending an election, Boggs said, the United States should continue its present military and economic assistance.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana spoke for the consensus when he offered this view of current U.S. policy:

"For the present, we have no other choice which in my judgment would fit the needs of the situation."

He added the United States should stand ready to negotiate for neutralization of South Viet Nam. "If it contains promise of a just and guaranteed solution, fine," Mansfield said. "If not, it can be discarded."

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., suggested extension of the war into Communist North Viet Nam and held out at the same time hope for a negotiated settlement.

Tower said present policies are losing the war, and he declared it will take new initiatives to reverse the course of the guerrilla struggle.

That, he said, means action to choke off Communist supply support from the north.

All told, 81 of the 100 senators responded to the survey.

In general terms, 30 of them suggested that the United States stick to its present course, at least for the present. Many of them called at the same time for steps to improve the results, stressing government reforms and stability in South Viet Nam.

Three others talked of strengthening Democratic government in the Southeast Asian nation, but took no stand on U.S. military or diplomatic measures.

Party Ratio In Important House Units Changes

Ten senators called for a negotiated settlement now, some joining Church in a call for international supervision.

Three suggested the United States and South Viet Nam step up the struggle, moving it north into Communist territory.

Three spoke out for U.S. withdrawal.

Eight indicated they had no suggestions, and 24 refused to comment at all.

Those who did offer suggestions proposed them in varying terms which defied precise man-by-man cataloging. Many senators who responded to the survey insisted that their names not be used.

Some Republicans who declined to be quoted by name renewed an allegation voiced by Barry Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, during his campaign — that President Johnson has not told Congress or the nation what is going on in South Viet Nam and there should be a detailed accounting from the White House.

House vote any piece of legislation which his group had approved but which the Rules Committee had sat on for 21 days. This change lasted only two years.

Once more a rules change. This power was taken away from committee chairmen. Once more the Rules Committee was allowed to run things pretty much as it pleased.

Since 1955, under the chairmanship of Howard W. Smith, Virginia Democrat, the highly conservative Democrats and Republicans on that committee have been a bottleneck time and again.

On Monday came the latest revolt. The House voted that if the Rules Committee held a piece of legislation 21 days, without letting it out for a vote, the speaker, using his own judgment, could order it out for a vote.

Thus, in all this twisting and turning, the House has restored to the speaker some of the power it took away from him in 1910. The present speaker, John McCormack, a Massachusetts Democrat, was all for it. Naturally, Chairman Smith of the Rules Committee wasn't.

But, as a result of all this, some of President Johnson's major legislation has a better chance of getting through the House since McCormack is on his side.

But, as a result of all this, some of President Johnson's major legislation has a better chance of getting through the House since McCormack is on his side.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advance firmed late this afternoon after suffering a mid-day sinking spell.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4.6 million shares, compared with 4.11 million Tuesday.

The market was still showing its approval of the bullish aspects of President Johnson's State of the Union message, according to brokers.

Steels, motors, aircrafts, rubbers, utilities, chemicals, rails, oils, airlines and drugs were in the plus column.

However, some big gains were toned down. IBM, which was delayed in opening because of an accumulation of orders, was up more than 7 points at one time but pared the gain to about 2. Du Pont held a gain of nearly 3 points after having been up more than 4.

A jump of nearly 3 points was made by International Harvester after announcement of plans for a stock split and dividend increase.

Advances of a point or so were made by International Nickel, Eastman Kodak, Polaroid and U.S. Smelting.

Bethlehem and Jones & Laughlin added about half a point and U.S. Steel was up by a lesser fraction.

General Motors advanced a point and Ford and Chrysler were up about half a point.

Prices were higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

WARD'S REPORTS RECORD SALES IN DECEMBER

CHICAGO (AP) — Montgomery Ward and Co. reported Tuesday December sales exceeded $200 million for the first time and were the largest for any one month in the 92-year history of the company.

Sales for the Dec. 3-30 period were $214,804,000, an increase of 15.2 per cent over December 1963 sales of $186,540,593.

For the 11 months of Ward's fiscal year, Jan. 30 through Dec. 30, cumulative sales were $1,594,527,000, up 12.9 per cent over $1,412,625,957 for the corresponding 1963 period, and a record.

TWO CHILDREN DIE IN EXPLOSION, FIRE

MELROSE PARK, Ill. (AP) — Two children died Tuesday in an explosion and fire in their trailer home in Melrose Park, a suburb of Chicago.

The dead were 6-month-old Terry Alden and Gregory Alden, 2, children of Mr. and Mrs. Warner Alden. The children's mother, Jean, 22, rescued a third child, Rickie, 4. Flames kept her from reaching the other children.

Mrs. Alden told police she had left the trailer briefly to visit a neighbor.

Fire officials were unable to determine the cause of the fire.

U.S. Headed For Major War In Asia, Morse Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said Tuesday the State Department's program in South Viet Nam is bankrupt and may involve the United States in a major war in Asia.

Morse made his comments after attending a briefing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

The senator, speaking of U.S. support for the anti-Communist war in Viet Nam, told newsmen: "I'm more convinced than ever it is without any justification under international law. We are an outlaw nation in South Viet Nam under our treaty obligations."

He said unless the United States brings other nations into the Southeast Asia conflict by raising the issue in the United Nations "we are headed for a major war in Asia."

Rusk, also questioned by newsmen after the nearly three-hour meeting, expressed hope that the South Viet Nam government, still split by a partial military coup, would find a way to organize and unify its war against the Communist Viet Cong.

Marina Oswald Under Contract To Write Book

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The pretty University of Michigan coed wore a babushka-like scarf around her head and a blue skirt and sweater as she met with newsmen for a brief chat.

Although she resembled most of the thousands of other coeds on the Ann Arbor campus, the student was Marina Oswald, 23, widow of the assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

The Russian-born Mrs. Oswald began classes Tuesday in the university's English Language Institute, which specializes in teaching the language to foreigners.

Although she said she is under contract to write a book about her life with Lee Harvey Oswald and has been instructed to grant no interviews, Mrs. Oswald talked with reporters and posed briefly for photographers.

Asked if she planned to date while at the university, Mrs. Oswald was puzzled by the question. She was told it meant "going out socially."

"I hope to meet fellow students while here," she replied, cautiously in heavily accented English.

Mrs. Oswald said she planned to return to Dallas at the end of her eight-week course.

"I've been treated well in Dallas, and the people there are warm," she said.

Mrs. Oswald's visit to Michigan is being sponsored by the First Presbyterian church of Ann Arbor.

CHANGES IN GRAINS

MOSTLY FRACTIONAL

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices moved unevenly with mostly fractional changes in grain futures dealings on the Board of Trade today.

Prices were mixed at the opening but most futures contracts in soybeans went into a decline as the trading session advanced. Some contracts lost more than a cent a bushel. Brokers said there was little in the news to prompt price movements either way.

The overhanging threat of a possible longshoremen's strike in Gulf and South Atlantic ports remained as a restraining influence.

Soybeans were 1/4 to 1/2 cents a bushel lower, January $2.60 1/4; wheat was 1/4 higher to 1/2 lower, March $1.50 1/4; corn unchanged to 1/4 lower, March $1.25 1/4; oats were unchanged to 1/4 higher, March 71 1/2 cents and rye was 1/4 to 1/2 lower, March $1.25 1/4.

Illini Drop Out

JCLA Takes Over Top Spot In Poll

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Surging UCLA takes to the road this weekend, seeking to extend its nine-game winning streak and protect its No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Bruins meet Oregon Friday and Oregon State Saturday. It was on the road that UCLA suffered its only setback, in the opening game against Illinois.

Winner over Arizona, Minnesota and Utah last week, UCLA soared from fourth place to replace Michigan as the leader in the latest poll, by a special panel of 41 writers and broadcasters. The Bruins collected 26 first place votes and 379 points, the latter on a basis of 10 for first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Indiana also moved past Michigan, into the runner-up position. The Hoosiers, 4-0 through last Saturday, were beaten by Illinois 36-61 Monday night. Indiana drew 12 votes for first place and 315 points.

This week's poll is based on games through last Saturday. Michigan To Third

The Wolverines, upset by St. John's of New York in the final of the Holiday Festival in Madison Square Garden, fell to third with 229 points, while St. John's of Pennsylvania, winner of the Quaker City tournament, Davidson.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, won-loss records through games of Saturday, Jan. 2, and points:

1. UCLA 26	379
2. Indiana 12	315
3. Michigan	229
4. St. Joseph's 1	177
5. Wichita	162
6. Duke	148
7. St. John's, N.Y.	140
8. San Francisco	131
9. Providence 2	111
10. Davidson	102

Writers Blast Pro Teams On Signings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sports writers throughout the country heaped words such as "intolerable," "unethical" and "cheating" on the two feuding pro football leagues Tuesday in commenting on the early signing of college players.

"The situation has become intolerable," said sports editor Ernest Mehl of the Kansas City Star.

Mehl said there was only one solution, and "it is up to the two professional leagues. Whether they join forces in anything else, there must come about a common draft such as is enjoyed by the two major baseball leagues."

Other sports writers suggested the colleges bar pro scouts.

"It seems clear that the NCAA and other concerned college officials would do well to look more closely into their relations with the pro leagues," said New Haven Register sports editor Charles W. Kellogg, "and take such steps as barring all pro scouts and officials from any and all contacts with undergraduate players."

Sports Editor Dick Hudson of the Charleston, W. Va., Daily Mail said that National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozell was general manager of the Los Angeles Rams when they signed Billy Cannon and three other players to early contracts several seasons ago.

Stirs Most Fiss

It is the signing of college players before the season is over that has stirred much of the fuss.

One Georgia player signed before the season with one pro team, after the season with another club. Georgia offered to forfeit all the games it won during the year, but its opponents did not accept.

Oklahoma lost four players just before its losing efforts in the Gator Bowl when they were forced to have signed pro contracts early. Once Oklahoma player also signed twice.

The Tulsa Tribune said it saw no objection to the pro signing up a player as early as they can as long as no money changes hands.

But the Tulsa Daily World said the trend toward early signings should be stopped quickly.

Possible Halts

"They are only two ways to stop the tampering," the newspaper said. "Either the professionals are going to have to police their own conduct with an iron code and severe penalties for breaking it, or the colleges will have to rope off their players and keep them from any contact with the pros."

Arthur Daley of the New York Times said the NCAA is indignant because it is being sabotaged "by organizations that are stronger and wealthier. Yet it is difficult to feel sympathetic toward the college governing body, because it also is using its greater muscle and financial strength to sabotage the AAU, a weaker organization, in a ruthless rule-or-ruin power grab for control of amateur sports in this country."

"Colleges Teach It"

Daley said "no one is better aware of under-the-table payments than college football players. The colleges teach them to cheat even before the kids have left high school."

These days, Daley said, the pro leagues are "so loaded with dough they can easily outbid any college. Anxiety and avarice now combine to impel the moneyed boys to jump the gun. "Once money comes through the door, ethical concepts fly out the window."

Virginia Ranked 1st In PMSC

VIRGINIA—Once-beaten and defending champion Virginia was given top seeding for the upcoming PMSC conference tournament Jan. 19-22 at the ISD gymnasium.

The nine conference schools were rated at a special meeting of loop coaches and administrators at ISD Tuesday afternoon.

Following Virginia in the ratings were twice-beaten Triopia and Chandlerville, Porta, Routt, Mercedosa, Perry, ISD and Bluffs.

Virginia is 6-1 for the year, Triopia 6-2, Chandlerville 8-2, Porta 6-4 and Routt 3-6. The Redbirds are the defending champions, having upset favored Triopia in the finals last year, 40-39. The Trojans won the event two years ago, Virginia in 1962 and Triopia again in 1961.

First night pairings Jan. 19 find three games on tap: a 6 p.m. game pitting ISD and Bluffs. Chandlerville meeting Perry at 7:30 and Porta facing Routt at 9 p.m.

Wednesday games will have Virginia meeting the winner of the ISD-Bluffs tilt at 7:00, and Triopia facing Mercedosa at 8:30. Thursday night will be the semi-finals and the finals are set for Friday evening.

Payson Bypasses Tornadoes 67-40

GRIGGSVILLE — The Payson Indians, with a height advantage in their favor, downed Griggsville, 67-40, in a non-conference encounter here Tuesday night.

The Indians jumped to an early lead, and had garnered an 11-2 margin by the end of the first period.

Griggsville was again overpowered in the second frame, as Payson piled up a 26 point second quarter total, while allowing the Tornadoes only eight points.

The Tornado attack stormed back to begin second half action, and edged their rivals, 14-12, to end the third quarter.

The Indians reversed the third frame totals in the fourth period, managing a 16-14 count in their favor, and walked away with a 27 point margin of victory.

For Payson, center Al Peter, pumped in 16 tallies to pace the Indian winning drive, while Tornado center Phil Hannant, dumped through 17 markers to lead the Griggsville scoring ranks.

The win leaves Payson sitting on a 9-2 overall season record, while the losing Griggsville five, now possess an unimpressive 2-6 season mark.

Ashland Upsets 'Dosh In First Tourney Round

ASHLAND—Host Ashland upset fourth-ranked Mercedosa and top-rated Chandlerville breezed by St. Mary's of Mt. Sterling here Tuesday night, in the first round of the annual Ashland tournament.

The host Panthers overcame a seven-point deficit at intermission to sweep into the lead in the closing seconds to hand "Dosh" a narrow 53-50 loss. Chandlerville overcame a shaky first period to race to a 69-42 margin in the first game of the evening.

Down 28-21 at halftime, Ashland got six points apiece from Jack Reiser and Calvin Porman in the third quarter to narrow the gap to one.

Porman hit a bucket to break a 50-50 deadlock with less than a minute left and Mike Hardy clinched it with a charity throw with :30 to play.

Chandlerville was held to a 7-7 tie in the first eight minutes, but rammed in 29 points in the second round for a sizeable 36-15 intermission.

Carroll Logue, the game's high scorer with 20 for the night, led the second-quarter charge with 12.

Dale Edge contributed 14 to the Comet cause. Joe Geisler paced the losing Eagles with 15.

Tonight's games will pit second-seeded Pleasant Plains against Bluffs at 6:30 and Greenview vs Springfield St. James at 8 p.m.

Millikin Nips Mac Near Finish, 79-74

DECATUR — A rash of late, free throws allowed Millikin to protect a slim lead in the closing seconds as MacMurray dropped a narrow 79-74 contest here Tuesday night.

Trailing the entire first half and the early minutes of the second half, the Highlanders rallied to tighten the game and send it undecided into the final seconds.

Ten players, five for each team, scored in double figures in a balanced offensive performance by both outfits.

The closest MacMurray got in the first half after the opening minutes was at 37-34 on a Chuck Hundley jumper with 2:10 left. Millikin came on to hold a 42-36 edge at halftime.

A Harry Matheny drive tied the game at 46-46 with 16:15 in remaining in the game. A bucket by Tom Zurkammer and a charity toss by Matheny gave the Clan a 49-46 edge.

Millikin came back to tie the game again at 49-49 on a bucket by John Black, but Mac again swept in front at 54-49 with under ten minutes left in the contest.

Millikin came on to lead again at 63-62 on a Jim Harris two-pointer with 3:33 to play. The game stayed close the rest of the way with the lead changing hands five more times.

With under three minutes to play Millikin took the lead at 74-72 and held the ball the rest of the way, forcing the Highlanders to foul then cashing in from the gift line.

MacMurray from the field, 42% to 47%.

Millikin is now 3-4 for the season and the Clan is 2-6. Jim Harris led the team with 10 points, followed by Tom Zurkammer with 7.

URGENT CONTEMPT ACTION AGAINST AMERICAN NAZI
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some House members advocate contempt of Congress action against Robert Lloyd, American Nazi who interrupted opening proceedings Monday by running onto the floor in a blackface costume.

However, House leaders have indicated they consider the matter closed. Lloyd, seized by police, forfeited $20 on a disorderly conduct charge.

Rep. Charles S. Joelson, D. N.J., said he will offer a resolution to hold Lloyd in contempt.

SUSSMAN NAMED TO PAROLE BOARD
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Otto Kerner Monday appointed Carl B. Susman of Highland Park to the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board.

Grid Platooning Major Issue In Rules Meeting

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Veteran Clemson University football Coach Frank Howard said Tuesday that the major issues facing the NCAA Football Rules Committee at its meeting later this month is concerned with platoon football.

He referred to the practice of coaches who have their teams jump offense on fourth down, or delay the game, thereby stopping the clock and drawing a five-yard penalty. This gives them an opportunity to substitute a platoon.

"I saw this happen all last season," said Howard, a member of the 15-man committee which meets at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., starting Jan. 15.

He continued, "The rule allowing free substitution whenever the clock is stopped was not meant to bring back platoon football. Coaches had asked for a change in the rule on substitution and now that they have it, they're taking advantage of it, contrary to the spirit of the rule."

"We could leave the rule as it is or we could counter this practice of drawing a penalty to allow platoon substitution by ruling that a team may substitute a platoon any time the clock is stopped except when it is the offending team in a penalty situation."

6th-Ranked Duke Easy 121-88 Victor

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke's sixth-ranked Blue Devils, getting 29 points from junior Jack Marin and 24 from sophomore Bob Verga, tied the school's scoring record Tuesday night in bombing Penn State 121-88.

Marin was a terror, hitting 13 of 14 field goal attempts and converting all three of his free throw tosses. By intermission, when Duke led 59-48, Marin had 20 points on nine field goals without a miss, and he had added two free throws.

Steve Vecandak, who scored 11, sparked the Blue Devils to their ninth victory of the season with his aggressive floor play.

Penn State's 6-foot-2 guard Bob Weiss sparked in defeat, tossing in 38 points, mostly on long jump shots.

FIREBALL JACKSON ON MOUND AGAIN

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The baseball team at the Kansas Penitentiary got encouraging news Tuesday-Fireball Jackson's coming back.

Fireball, a pitcher more formally known as Isaiah Leon Jackson, was sentenced to 10 to 21 years after he pleaded guilty to a charge of armed robbery of a taxicab driver.

It was while serving an earlier term for robbing a gasoline station that Jackson gained the reputation of having won more games and struck out more batters in one season than any other pitcher in the 100-year history of the penal institution at Lansing.

In September, 1963, Jackson was paroled.

A year later, after he had pitched for Reno, Nev., in the California State League, he was arrested for the taxicab robbery here.

WILL RENEW FIGHT TO MANAGE BOXING

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., announced Tuesday he will renew his fight to place big time professional boxing under federal regulation.

Hart said he is working on a redraft of his proposal which he urged in the last Congress to create the post of national boxing commissioner with wide powers to license and regulate the conduct of pro boxers, managers, matchmakers and promoters, and to police the sport in general.

"It's the one hope for making boxing a clean sport and restoring public confidence in it," Hart said in a statement. He added that "I have hope" for its enactment.

The antitrust and monopoly subcommittee approved the measure in the last Congress, but it died in the subcommittee's parent body, the Senate Judiciary Committee.

NICK ALTROCK CRITICAL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Nick Altrock, 36, once a star pitcher but better known as a clown-coach for the Washington Senators, remained critically ill Tuesday, but was reported to be "a little bit more alert."

Altrock suffered a stroke two years ago and has been in failing health for some months. A spokesman for Doctor's Hospital said he still is on the critical list, where he has been for more than a week.

GIANT QB TO MARRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Wood, 22, quarterback of the New York Giants professional football team, and Iris Gill Poliak, 19, student at Cornell University, obtained a marriage license Tuesday.

The couple did not reveal plans for their marriage.

College Results

Eastern 80, Quincy 65
CHARLESTON, Ill. (AP) — Eastern Illinois poured in 53 points in the second half and connected on its last 14 free throws to score an 80-65 basketball victory over Quincy College Tuesday night.

Quincy led 33-27 at the half before Eastern began to roll. Jim Fricke topped the victors with 22 points but scoring honoree went to Quincy's Amon Evans with 24 points.

Augustana 70, Monmouth 69
ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — A free throw by Dick Duncan on one second left to play enabled Augustana to score a 70-69 basketball victory over Monmouth Tuesday night.

Duncan missed the first of two free throws but came through on the second to give the Vikings a victory. Augustana led 69-67 only to have Monmouth's Dick Rodgers tie the game with 24 seconds to play.

Augustana led 37-26 at the half. Monmouth's Gary Gilliland led all scorers with 29 points. George Stromborn was high for Augustana.

Designers Offer Styles Husbands Can Approve

NEW YORK (AP) — The neglected other half of the female population—those ladies over 25 who want waistlines in place, skirts to the knees and enough bodice room to take a deep breath—got a break at the New York Couture Group's press previews Tuesday.

Three design houses demonstrated that the fashion industry still is in the business of making modest, wearable, ladylike apparel, despite the influence of an audacious generation of Mods, Yeyes, and Swingers.

Timeless and classic describe the collections by Branelle, Gothe and Harvey Berin which included neat little suits with floral-printed blouses, and trim little dresses in silk or wool pastels, or vivid reds or greens.

In the language husbands understand best, this means that their wives' old wardrobe might do for several more seasons, or that she can buy now without fretting about obsolescence.

Men are known to whistle at plunging necklines, but they like to see their own women in the simple linen or silk sheaths with tie or jewel necklines and belts. And on their wives they want hemlines where they were on the costumes by the three fashion houses Tuesday—no short or than the knees.

DePAUL SCORES 99-70 MEMPHIS STATE WIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Murphy and Errol Palmer combined for 48 points Tuesday night to lead DePaul to a 99-70 victory over Memphis State for the Blue Demons' seventh straight home victory.

DePaul, now 10-2, lost starter and leading scorer Jesse Nash when he reinjured his ankle early in the game. Murphy, who had 26 points, gave DePaul the charge it needed after the visiting Tigers took an early 10-11 lead.

Murphy scored three baskets and a free throw and center Dave Mills added four points for a 26-21 DePaul advantage. The Tigers kept within range but a 12-point spurge by Murphy and Don Swanson spurred DePaul to a 40-32 halftime lead.

It was all DePaul in the second half as the Tigers lost their poise and made numerous errors.

CHISOX SIGN DROTT TO INDY FARM CLUB

CHICAGO (AP) — Dick Drott, star rookie pitcher for the Chicago Cubs in 1957, was signed by the Chicago White Sox Tuesday for their Indianapolis club in the Pacific Coast League.

Drott, now 23, had a 15-11 record when he broke in with the Cubs as a 21-year-old. He was drafted from the Cubs after the 1961 season by Houston in the National League's Expansion pool.

Drott, a right-hander, spent the last two seasons in the minors, at Columbus of the International League and Oklahoma City of the Texas League. He pitched only 3 innings last year because of a sore arm.

He has a 25-win, 34-loss major league record and will get a look from White Sox Manager Al Lopez in spring training at Sarasota, Fla., beginning Feb. 24.

OZARK AIRLINES ASKS CAB TO EXTEND ITS ROUTE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ozark Air Lines has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to extend its route between Davenport, Iowa, Moline, Ill., and Indianapolis southward to Louisville, Ky.

The intermediate points on the route are Peoria, Springfield, Decatur and Champaign-Urbana, Ill.

Ozark currently serves Louisville from the west, out of St. Louis.

Take Advantage Of Mother's Short Memory, Long Grocery List

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Modern supermarkets carry over 6,000 different articles, but I can never seem to find the items on my shopping list on the shelves.

Take the time I was looking for "babins," for instance. Not a habun in the whole place. I really made a search for them, too, because they were underlined three times on my list, with an exclamation point. All indications were that we had been out of these necessities for some time and were likely to remain so.

It was only after I got home that my daughter wailed "Did you forget the hamburger buns again?"

Early in life my kids learned to take advantage of their mother's short memory and long grocery lists. They became adept at imitating my handwriting and sandwiching such choice selections as cookies and soda pop among the green beans and lettuce. Occasionally, I would wonder why I had listed the desired flavor of ice cream as "chocolate."

show exactly what I mean when I jot items down on the pad I keep hanging in the kitchen, but the words always seem to lose a few letters or transfer themselves into a foreign tongue on the way to market.

The notation "R and E" seems self-explanatory when I scribble it upon discovery that we are out of both bacon and eggs. But its significance escapes me when I ponder over my shorthand in the grocery

Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Anti-recession measures studded President Johnson's proposals to the Congress. And businessmen now have the answers to the question bothering them most in the midst of today's unprecedented prosperity.

That is: What would the government do if a slowdown in the long economic upswing comes in a few more months — as many now predict — or if a recession itself might unexpectedly threaten?

The President's proposals both follow and add to the standard lines of what government is supposed to do to ward off or lessen a slump. The "traditional" moves are:

1. Tax cuts to pump more money into consumers' pockets, in the hope they will spend it fast.

2. Emergency government spending, which works slower but in time may furnish jobs and new orders for business.

To this he has added the newest theory of how the government should aid and guide the economy: continued deficit financing, right now when business clouds are few, to keep the economy growing.

The deficit in the next federal budget will come from more tax cuts, already scheduled or now promised for this year, and from more government spending for a long list of programs aimed at furthering the advent of the "Great Society."

The President, his advisers, and probably a majority of Congress count on this deficit spending to produce enough economic growth to make more jobs, higher incomes and thus, eventually, larger Treasury collections.

And they point with pride to 1964, when a tax cut while the Treasury was running a deficit is credited with helping boost the economy to record heights.

The President proposes cuts in the federal excise — sales — taxes, and perhaps still lower income tax rates if a slowdown threatens. Above all, though, he would like a heretofore reluctant Congress to arrange for quick — almost automatic — income tax cuts to fight a recession as soon as it appears.

He also wants, just in case, similar standby programs for public works to be started when new jobs are urgently needed.

Also aimed at putting off the day when an economic slowdown or a recession may appear is the President's suggestion that the federal $1.25 an hour minimum wage law be extended to two million more workers now uncovered. And he wants unemployment benefits boosted by higher payroll taxes covering a larger amount of wages.

VETERAN DRIVER KILLED
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bill Wade, a veteran race car driver who was reaching his peak as a competitor, was killed Tuesday when his car blew a tire at 170 miles per hour and rammed into a concrete wall at Daytona International Speedway.

Wade was alone on the track, testing tires when the right front tire blew as he went into the west turn.

He had won four straight races in 1964 and was fourth in NASCAR's standings.

The native of Houston was living in Spartanburg, S.C.

Several times I have come home with pots, only to find we have plenty of cooking pans, but nothing in the way of potatoes. And a scrawled "pecs" can mean anything from pickles to peaches to pancakes.

Somehow I usually manage to muddle my way through, even though I may purchase soup bones or bananas, when the "bns" on the list really stands for beans. But one time all my imagination and ingenuity couldn't cope with the notation at the top of the slip of paper. The series of loops and swirls was undoubtedly "mdvpi." I finally gave up in despair.

That night I brought it to the attention of my husband, who can sometimes read my writing when I can't. "That looks for all the world like 'mdvpi,'" I pointed out.

"It is," he agreed. "I wrote that on there just to give you something to puzzle about."

Hint Bartenders Would Make Good Psychiatrists

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Wives have heard all this before, from husbands weaving home their weary way long after curfew has tolled the knell of parting day.

"Isn't that I really needed a drink, Momma; isn't just that I wanted good ol' Joe the bartender to check up on my mental health?"

... put down the skillet for a minute, Momma. Next time you hear this tale, it may be true.

The fellow who venerates the corner saloon as an institution may be taking his first step toward one when he orders that second double on the rocks, and brings himself under what you might call the gimlet eye of the man behind the bar.

For bartenders, under a proposal before the suburban Waukesha County Institutions Board, would be encouraged to pony up some advice on seeking professional help, along with the specialty of the house, when patrons show signs of emotional disturbance.

"We think they can help us," says Emery E. Reuss, institutions superintendent.

As the plan is drafted — drafted, that is — bartenders would be invited to attend a training session. Reuss adds, for "a point of information on what facilities are available. If the occasion arose, the bartenders could refer people to the institutions or a doctor."

Clergymen already have been attending similar training sessions with staff members. Reuss noted in explaining the idea to the Milwaukee District Comprehensive Planning Committee on Mental Illness and Retardation, of which he also is chairman.

"This is a matter of education," he told the committee. "We don't know if this has been tried before but we're going to see if it works."

State Legislators Select Leaders

Rep. Touhy Elected Speaker

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Rep. John Touhy of Chicago was elected as Illinois House speaker Tuesday night at a Democratic caucus.

The Democrats, who will control the House by a 118-59 majority, also picked Rep. Clyde Choate of Anna for House majority leader and Rep. Paul Elward of Chicago as majority whip.

Touhy will become the first Chicago Democrat to preside over the House in 50 years. His selection and that of other legislative leaders is subject to formal ratification when the 74th Illinois General Assembly opens at noon Wednesday.

Rep. Albert Hachmeister of Chicago defeated Rep. William Pollack of Chicago for Republican House minority leader.

Hachmeister announced the appointment of Rep. John Parkhurst of Peoria as GOP minority House whip.

Senate Democrats selected Thomas McGloon of Chicago as their minority leader and Alan Dixon of Belleville as minority whip.

The Senate Republican caucus was to be of a perfunctory nature. Sen. W. Russell Arrington of Evanston was chosen at a meeting last month as president pro tem.

Opening day of the legislature will be spent on organization of the two houses.

Secretary of State William H. Chamberlain will preside over the House until a speaker has been elected. After the new speaker assumes his post, Chamberlain will go to the Sangamon County Courthouse where he will be sworn in as a Circuit Court Judge.

The State Electoral Board will meet Wednesday morning here.

The background is this: Over the decades cities and suburbs grew enormously while the rural population dwindled. But many state legislatures, most of them dominated by countrymen, declined to reapportion accordingly. This led to instances where a rural resident's vote was worth 10 or 100 times the vote of a city citizen's and in one extreme case — Vermont — nearly 1,000 times.

Lawyers for city and suburbs argued hotly that this led to neglect of such metropolitan problems as education, urban sprawl, urban flight, housing, mass transportation.

Political Revolution Concealed In State Legislative Reapportionment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The year of jubilee. That is what 1965 is apt to be for city dwellers and suburbanites striving for more political power.

But for their country cousins, the outlook is gloomy. Their long-flexed political muscle is likely to atrophy, to a large extent.

Many citizens, whether they live in megalopolis or on farms, do not realize yet the importance of what is happening.

For what is happening is "state legislative reapportionment"—and this is a dull-sounding mouthful. But concealed in the yawn-inducing phrase is a political revolution, with effects still incalculable.

Under court prodding, or the threat of litigation, at least 30 states will take up this year the task of revamping their legislative districts. Cities and suburbs, especially the latter, seem certain to emerge with much stronger representation.

Hemphill Pleads Guilty To Murder; Pass Sentence Today

A 44-year-old Jacksonville man entered a plea of guilty to a murder indictment returned by a Morgan county grand jury last month.

William Hemphill, 44, of Jacksonville appeared before Circuit Judge Paul Verticchio for arraignment Wednesday morning and made the plea before the court. Hemphill, through his attorney, Richard Yates Rowe, Jr., said he would like to "get it over with."

Public To Attend Rabbi's Lecture At MacMurray

Rabbi Meyer M. Abramowitz, spiritual leader of Temple B'rith Shalom in Springfield, Ill., will be a guest lecturer at 7 p.m. Thursday, January 7, at MacMurray College. He will speak on "Contemporary Theologians" in the Contemporary Theologians Class, Room 7, MacMurray Science Hall, taught by the Rev. Karl Wright, theologian-in-residence at the College.

Rabbi Abramowitz

The first part will be devoted to contemporary Jewish theology, and the remaining a discussion of the topic. The public is cordially invited.

Rabbi Abramowitz has been guest speaker in the MacMurray Chapel series. He received his B.S. degree from Columbia University and was ordained a rabbi at Hebrew Union College, Jewish Institute of Religion, where he earned an M.H.L. degree. He is presently working toward his doctorate at Columbia University.

He has served congregations in Reseda, Calif., Sharon, Pa., and Forest Hills, N.Y.

The Rabbi lectures on college campuses under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua Society, sponsored by the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods. The Society works to create better understanding of Jews and Judaism through education, by distributing authentic information concerning Judaism.

Sandburg Lifts Heavy Chair On 37th Birthday

By RICHARD C. BAYER
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) —

Carl Sandburg, the white-haired poet and Lincoln biographer, celebrates his 87th birthday today by lifting a heavy oak armchair over his head for exercise.

"He spreads his feet wide apart and lifts a big, heavy oak armchair over his head three times," said Harry Golden, Sandburg's friend and biographer. "That's his exercise and he does it every day."

Golden said birthday telegrams had been sent to Sandburg's mountain home in Flat Rock, N.C., by the President, Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall, Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and "all that Chicago crowd."

President Johnson also had a gift for Sandburg. It was a color photograph, inscribed by Johnson, of the President, Sandburg and Sandburg's brother-in-law, photographer Edward Steichen. Johnson arranged for William Friday, president of the University of North Carolina, to visit Flat Rock to present the gift to Sandburg.

Golden, who edits and publishes the Carolina Israelite, and has written several best-selling books, said his telegram to Sandburg read: "May you live to be 120, just like Moses."

Sandburg, who won a Pulitzer Prize in 1940 for his lengthy Lincoln biography and in 1951 for his "Complete Poems," has predicted that he'll die at an age divisible by 11.

"It's inevitable, it's inexorable, it's written in the book of fate," the poet told a newsmen when he turned 80. "I had two great-grandfathers and a grandfather who died in years divisible by 11. If I don't die at 88, I'll go on to 99."

Golden, who visits the Sandburgs about once a month, says Sandburg still does a lot of reading and is working on the second volume of his autobiography. The first, "Always the Young Strangers" was published in 1954.

The deceased was a member of the Ashland Christian church. The body is at the Gainer Funeral Home where friends may call any time Thursday.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Ashland Christian church with the pastor, Rev. James Cook officiating. Interment will be in Ashland cemetery. The body will lie in state one hour before funeral services at the church.

Other guests were Mrs. Howard Henstey, Miss Beatrice Elliott, Orval Cannedy, Mrs. Carl Day, James Van Geisen. Mrs. Harding received many lovely gifts.

HYDRANTS UNTOUCHABLE
SITKA, Alaska (AP) — Fire hydrants were untouchable today in this Alaska Panhandle town. Volunteer firemen were told to keep hands off until a prolonged cold snap ends, even if there's a fire.

Chief Robert Barden, who issued the order Tuesday, said the whole water system might freeze up because of lower pressure if the hydrants are used.

Large tanks borrowed from the Standard Oil Co. have been mounted on city trucks and filled with water for emergency use by fire rigs.

Temperatures have been just a few degrees above zero for days.

BULLETIN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Administration bills for reapportionment of the Illinois House and Senate were prepared for introduction today at the opening of the new legislative session.

Chris Vlahoplus, administrative aid to Gov. Otto Kerner, said the bills provide for redistricting on a population basis "strictly in accordance" with the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision.

The House bill proposes that 16 of the 59 districts be in Chicago, 8 in the Cook County suburban area, 6 overlapping Chicago and the suburbs, and the remainder downstate.

The Senate bill provides for 16 of the 58 districts in Chicago, 7 in the suburban area, 6 overlapping Chicago and the suburbs, 1 overlapping Cook County and Lake County, and the balance downstate.

Greene Family Overcome By Furnace Fumes

CARROLLTON—Mr. and Mrs. Siddell Bridgewater of Carrollton and their three daughters, Becky, Carolyn and Bonnie were all under oxygen in Boyd Memorial hospital Tuesday afternoon.

They were admitted Tuesday morning apparently suffering from the effects of gas fumes from a faulty furnace.

The family were all ill Monday but thought they were taking the flu.

A physician, called to the home Tuesday morning, brought them to the hospital for treatment.

Princess Meg, In-Laws Go Pub-Crawling

CLARENBRIDGE, Ireland (AP) — Princess Margaret and her in-laws went pub-crawling on the west coast of Ireland Tuesday night, downing Chablis and Galway Bay oysters at Paddy Burke's bar while the regulars goggled over their beer and stout.

"We're having a wonderful time," the queen's sister told Paddy and his staff.

With Margaret were her husband, Lord Snowdon; her mother-in-law, the Countess of Rosse, and the earl; and Snowdon's brother-in-law and sister, Viscount and Viscountess de Vesei. Margaret and Snowdon are visiting the Rosses at Birt Castle, 45 miles inland from the coast.

The princess wore beat-style black stockings, low-heeled shoes and a schoolgirlish gray dress.

Paddy's 15-year-old daughter, Rose, led the party in singing "The Rose of Tralee," accompanied by Keiron Moylan on the concertina. Then Tom O'Toole, Clarenbridge's leading tenor, obliged with "Galway Bay," a song which the Irish fervently — though wrongly — believe is banned as subversive in England.

Snowdon passed up the wine and had traditional stout with his oysters. The party finished the meal with a whisky-based Irish liqueur.

9 From Area Are Candidates To Military Schools

Of the thirty-one young men to be interviewed Saturday, Jan. 16 at Illinois College in Jacksonville as the final step in Rep. Paul Findley's selection of military academy nominees, nine are from this immediate area.

Candidates are: Naval Academy, Steven K. Goodman, son of Dr. and Mrs. James E. Goodman of Pleasant Hill; David Pfeiffer, son of Roy F. Pfeiffer of Pittsfield.

Air Force Academy: James D. Ivers, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ivers of Eldred; David H. Jennings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Avery L. Jennings of Pleasant Hill; Albert W. Scott III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Scott II of Carrollton; Carl Shulman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Myer Shulman of Pittsfield; William F. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Young of Jacksonville.

Military Academy: Joseph D. McCausland, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. McCausland, Sr. of Beardstown; and Randall C. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moore of Roodhouse.

This year Rep. Findley has four openings at the Naval Academy (Annapolis) and two each at the Air Force (Colorado Springs) and Army (West Point).

In preparation, the members of the interview boards are meeting Jan. 9 at Illinois College for the purpose of organization and to examine written data on each applicant.

Findley has developed the interview board system in order to select the most capable and promising young men for academy appointment, and at the same time assure each candidate fair and impartial consideration.

Young men who will have completed their high school education by June, 1966, and who are interested in a military career, can get information on next year's competition by writing Rep. Findley, Room 1032, Longworth Building, Washington, D.C.

Greenfield To Build Water Storage Lake

GREENFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A $125,000 water improvement program in this Greene County community offers a study in the complexity of solving a typical water shortage problem.

The town of about 1,000 residents built a $66,000 water system in 1937, utilizing a well as a source of supply for 125 customers. It now has 425 users, and three more wells have been drilled.

Water tables are unable to feed the wells consistently, and the town lacks a water reserve guarantee despite construction three years ago of a small reservoir.

When Rubicon Creek stops flowing, the wells run dry. Greenfield has been hauling water from Brighton for 15 years.

A bond issue is allowing construction of a storage reservoir and a water treatment plant. The improved system will provide water in this manner:

The three-year-old lake will feed Rubicon Creek. The creek, with help from the lake when needed, will supply the water tables that supply the wells. Water will be pumped from the wells to the new reservoir.

How To Tell If You're Likely Heart Victim

CHICAGO (AP) — Are you a prime candidate for a heart attack? One way to tell, says a specialist, is to put a tape measure around your waist. If you're male and measure more than 32 inches, or female and exceed 26, the answer is yes.

Dr. Richard C. Bates of Michigan State University says every inch beyond 32 or 26 means five pounds overweight. And overweight, said Bates, can cause heart attacks.

But in his talk to a luncheon club Tuesday on "How to Have a Heart Attack," Bates said skinny persons shouldn't smirk.

Slender persons suffer just as many heart attacks as does the more robust group — but not so many of the fatal kind, he said. Weight is just one factor that causes heart attacks, said Bates, a specialist in internal medicine.

Two-pack-a-day smokers, for example, have twice as many heart attacks as non-smokers, he said.

He said there is no evidence that alcoholics have either more or fewer heart attacks than teetotalers.

"They just die of cirrhosis (an inflammatory liver ailment)," he said.

Dr. Bates said that although Swedish people have levels of cholesterol in their blood as high as Americans, they have fewer heart attacks.

It is presumed, he said, that the difference is in the amount of exercise. The Swedes have fewer automobiles and probably not as many self-winding watches, Bates said.

Bates told of an experiment with chickens, the only fowl which can be induced to lay down fatty deposits in their arteries such as human heart attacks victims do.

Experiments have shown, he added, that this tendency can be halted in fat hens by keeping them in a nervous state by introducing a new rooster to the flock every day.

PUBLIC INVITED TO MacMURRAY CHAPEL SERVICE
MacMurray's first chapel service after the Christmas vacation period will be at 11 a.m. Thursday, January 7. Dr. Joseph Haroutianian, professor of systematic theology at The Divinity School of the University of Chicago, will be the speaker.

The Combined College Choir, under the direction of Dr. Henry Busche, professor of Music, will sing "There Shall A Star Come Out of Jacob," by Mendelssohn. Dr. Francis H. Hopper, College organist, will play "Basse Trompette" and "Dialogue," by Dandrieu. The service will be conducted by the College chaplain, Dr. McKendree M. Blair.

The public is cordially invited.

U. I. Luncheon For X-tra Yield Corn Champions

Saturday, Jan. 9, an award luncheon will be held in the ballroom of the Illini Union building, Urbana, to honor the winners in the 4-H "X-tra Yield" corn contest.

The corn contest is sponsored jointly by the Extension Service, College of Agriculture of the University of Illinois, FS Services, Inc., and its affiliated farmer-owned FS member companies in Illinois.

A high point of the banquet will be the presentation of the major awards to the top scoring 4-H members. The highest ranking member of each of the five extension districts will be presented with a wrist watch. In addition, a special trophy will be presented to that youth who has the highest yielding project in the state contest, regardless of other scoring factors.

Also, in addition to the "X-tra Yield" awards, there will be five special scholarship awards made. These awards, one to a representative of each of the five districts, are given to the youths who score highest in their 4-H Club activity, personal development, and leadership records.

There will be a special panel session, moderated by Dr. Thorne, head of the U. I. Agronomy department. Melvin E. Sims, president of FS Services, will present the awards and Ward Lawler, manager of the FS Plant Food Division will serve as master of ceremonies.

Two members of the Berea 4-H club will represent Morgan county at the luncheon. Bob Reiser was the winner of the annual corn show in the county and Alan Petefish is the local scholarship nominee.

NO SUSPENSE AS SOLONS COUNT ELECTORAL VOTES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate and House meet in joint session today to count the electoral votes and officially declare the victor.

With President Johnson having roundly defeated Sen. Barry Goldwater 438 to 52 in the Electoral College balloting, today's ceremony held no suspense.

Since the nation will be without a vice president until Hubert H. Humphrey takes his oath Jan. 20, today's presiding officer was to be Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., president pro tem of the Senate.

NO WOMEN MEMBERS AMONG SENATORS OF 74th ASSEMBLY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — When the 74th Illinois General Assembly convened today, it marked the first time the Senate was without a female member in 14 years.

Mrs. Madge Green of Palestine and Miss Lillian Schlagenhauf of Quincy, Republican senators in the 73rd session, were defeated in re-election bids.

Staff membership in the House has increased from three the past session to seven this year.

New members are Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Rep. Dorah Grow, D-Quincy; Rep. Mrs. Brooks McCormick, R-Chicago; and Rep. Marjorie Peabworth, R-Riverdale.

Women incumbents who won re-election are Rep. Frances Dawson, R-Evanston; and Rep. Esther Saperstein, D-Chicago.

PITTSFIELD BPW WELCOMES 15 NEW MEMBERS

PITTSFIELD — Welcoming ceremonies were held for 15 new members of the Pittsfield Business and Professional Woman's club at a meeting held Jan. 4, at the Pittsfield Community Center. Forty-nine members and guests enjoyed the delicious roast beef dinner served by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Beemer, managers of the Center.

President Hester Norton presided. The personal development committee with Mildred Gamble, chairman, presented the program. Hazel McCune spoke on participation in civic affairs.

Several selections on the accordion were presented by Mrs. Grace Matteson, a guest.
